One day after deadline

Carter unveils welfare reform program outline

WASHINGTON (AP) — One day after his original deadline for announcing a program to overhaul the nation's welfare system, President Carter is unveiling the outline of a still uncompleted reform plan.

The President's usual Monday meeting with his Cabinet was expanded today to include congressional leaders who were invited to the State Dining Room for a special budget meeting with Thomas B. Lance, the director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Before the meeting, Lance and his deputy, James T. McIntyre Jr., were to give the President a special budget briefing.

The President and top aides worked on the welfare program over the weekend, drawing up their general principles on welfare reform. Legislation to carry out the administration's plan will be presented sometime later, although Congress may not get around to final action on it this year.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Rex Granum said the goal of the welfare reform program was to make the welfare system "more efficient and equitable." Carter often spoke during the presidential campaign about simplifying the program and making it more fair.

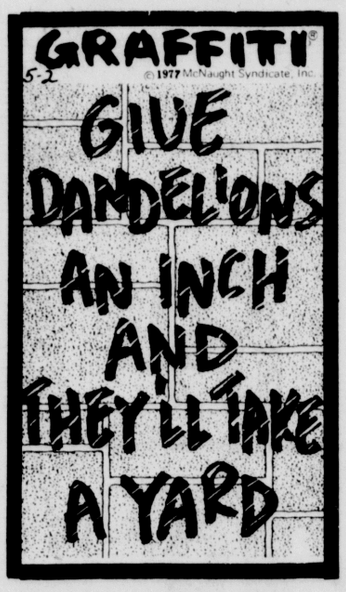

In addition to working on welfare proposals Sunday, the President prepared for his trip to Europe, which begins Thursday. While in Europe, Carter is to attend an economic summit and a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in London. He also is to make a brief trip to Geneva to meet with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

As part of an effort to arrive in Europe with some advance publicity, the President was giving several European television stations an interview today at the White House.

At the center of the welfare reform issue is the question of making welfare equitable for those who can't find work and at the same time encouraging those able to work to do so.

Pressure has been placed on the administration by the states and the National Governors Conference to revise the welfare system so that full financing of welfare is met by the federal government. Under the current system, the states provide varying amounts to match federal contributions.

The administration has said the federal government cannot afford full financing, which has been estimated to cost $15 billion a year.

Coffee Break . . .

MOTHER'S DAY ranks fourth as a card-sending occasion. . . Can you name the three dates that top it?!. . .

The answer is at the end of today's Coffee Break column. . .

AMERICA'S annual outpouring of filfial devotion takes place Sunday, when flowers, candy and an estimated 13.5 million long distance messages will crisscross the nation. . .

It's Mother's Day and more than 380,000 of those interstate calls — not to mention countless roses and chocolates — will come from Ohioans. . . There also will be another 350,000 long distance calls completed within the state. . .

To handle the unusual traffic, the Bell System literally will rebuild the nationwide telephone network several times that day — not with pliers and wire cutters but with the electronic tools of the management control centers. . .

Staffed jointly by operating companies like the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. and AT&T's Long Lines organization, the control centers route calls along the swiftest paths available, constantly looking for overloaded circuits and other trouble spots. . .

Thus, an Ohioan's call to the West Coast could go first to the East Coast before arriving out west. . .

"All of this happens very rapidly, with rarely any delay a customer would notice," said Norita Craycraft, Ohio Bell Telephone Co. customer service manager in Washington C.H. . .

"Nevertheless, the hours between 2 and 5 p.m. Sunday are usually pretty crowded, so try and avoid that period if you can. . . And if you do get a busy signal, wait about five minutes before trying again," she said. . .

Here are some other tips from Ohio Bell:

—Dial the calls yourself, without operator assistance as rates are discounted 60 per cent all day Saturday and until 5 p.m. Sunday; 35 per cent from 5 to 11 p.m. Sunday, and 60 per cent from 11 p.m. to 8 a.m. any night;

ON YOUR MARK, GET SET — Over 200 bicycle riders are pictured here preparing for the start of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority's Million Dollar Bike Ride Sunday afternoon. The bicycle riders were led by honorary co-chairmen Sam Grooms and Mark Heiny. Those participating in the fifth annual event gathered at the Huntington Bank parking lot on N. Fayette Street before beginning the 20-mile course. David Laytart finished the course in the fastest time for the fifth consecutive year.

Nearly 500 participate in weekend benefits

Fayette Countians not lazy

Who says American kids are lazy?

The person who started that rumor would have hidden his head in shame this past weekend since it was Fayette County's youth that made both the March of Dimes Super Walk '77 and Epsilon Sigma Alpha corority's annual Million Dollar Bike Ride the successes they were.

According to Karen Gault, chairman of the March of Dimes Super Walk, 250 persons participated in the 20-mile trek and most of them were 13, 14 and 15-year-olds, although some of the walkers were older and younger.

Each walker had to have at least one sponsor who pledged to pay a certain amount of money for each mile the walker completed. Mrs. Gault said that $6,000 in pledges have been collected.

All of the money collected from the Super Walk is used in the central Ohio area to intiate and further existing March of Dimes programs including research, medical services and education. During the past seven years, volunteers representing all age groups have participated in March of Dimes Super Walks in all 50 states.

Most of the local walkers took between six and six and one half hours to complete the 20-mile journey which began at Eyman Park at 9 a.m. Saturday, but Tony Del Ponte, who jogged the entire distance, completed the trek in two hours and 40 minutes.

The route the walkers (and joggers) covered began at Eyman Park, through Washington C.H. to Robinson Road to Bogus Road, then across Old Springfield Road to Bloomingburg, out Ohio 38, across Hickory Lane and then back into Washington C.H. via of Ohio 41.

Organizations volunteering services for the event were the Washington C.H. Jaycees and Jaycettes, the Fayette County Night Owls Citizens Band Radio Club, the Ohio Army National Guard, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and the

During Sunday night thunderstorm

Police, sheriff lose radios temporarily

A well-placed bolt of lightning and a funnel cloud sighting caused some anxious moments for area law enforcement agencies during a severe thunderstorm which soaked Fayette County Sunday night.

Radio sonsoles at both the Fayette County Sheriff's and the Washington C.H. Police departments were knocked out by lightning at 8:04 p.m. Full radio communication was not restored until about 2 a.m. Monday.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department was without any radio communication for approximately 30 minutes Sunday night. Partial communication with cruisers and other law enforcement agencies was finally supplied by a portable radio.

During the half hour the portable radio was being set up, a citizens band radio operator reported a funnel cloud sighting along Ohio 41-S between Washington C.H. and Greenfield.

The Greenfield Police Department monitored the citizens band radio report. Knowing that the sheriff's and police departments in Washington C.H. were without radio communication, Greenfield police officers contacted the Ohio Highway Patrol. The Ohio Highway Patrol then contacted the Fayette County Sheriff's Department by telephone.

A call was placed to the National Weather Service office in Cincinnati to report the funnel cloud sighting, but bureau officials said there was no chance a tornado could develop in the storm. Heavy black clouds are believed to have been mistaken for the funnel cloud.

To further check out the report, a Fayette County Sheriff's Department cruiser was dispatched toward Greenfield at approximately 8:30 p.m. The deputy traveled down Ohio 41-S and noticed no unusual cloud formations.

John Boylan, of Boylan & Cannon Electronics Inc., 216 W. Court St., and three other men worked for four hours to restore total radio communications to both department. He said that he was not sure where the lightning struck, but that it had to be near the downtown Washington C.H. area.

Both departments had electricity and jail security monitors were still in operation.

A few Washington C.H. residents were reportedly without electric service for a short period of time Sunday night.

George Winkle, manager of the local Dayton Power and Light Co. office, reported that a few homes on Willabar Drive and one or two residents near Canterbury Place were without electricity for approximately 30 minutes. The outages were believed to have been caused when lightning struck a branch power line just north of the Ohio 41-S and U.S. 35 intersection.

No wind damage reports were turned in to the sheriff's or police departments following the thunderstorm which dumped 1.24 inches of rain on the county.

Geothermal energy could solve nation's problems

CLEVELAND (AP) — Geothermal energy is being overlooked in America, says a professor whose university is doing the only federally sponsored geothermal research.

"Geothermal potentials are tremendous," said Dr. Alexander R. Troiano of Case Western Reserve University's Department of Metallurgy and Material Science. "But geothermal energy doesn't have the glamour of solar and nuclear-power sources. That's why it has been neglected."

His department is receiving a total of $1 million in government grants to study the power source.

Geothermal energy derives from the natural heat of the earth's interior. It is commonly observed through geysers such as "Old Faithful" in Yellowstone Park.

In Iceland, 80 to 90 per cent of the homes, buildings and industry are heated or powered by geothermal energy, according to Troiano.

"We are far behind in exploiting what we have always had," he said. "The first regular use of geothermal power for driving electric generators was a Larderello, Italy, around the turn of the century. They're still going strong."

Use of geothermal power in the United States has been limited primarily to curative uses such as the mineral waters of White Sulpher Springs, W.Va. and Hot Springs, Ark.

The energy source has been largely ignored until recently because oil and gas has been inexpensive, Troiano said.

"The petroleum people are the logical ones to probe for geothermal energy," Troiano said. "Until geothermal exploration gets the same (tax) incentives as oil and gas exploration, they're not going to be very enthusiastic."

The scientist says that geothermal wells, general speaking, are drilled in depths of 5,000 to 6,000 feet deep where the earth's surface is thin. They yield steam or superheated water with a high salt content. Aerial photograpby using infrared film locates "hot spots," potential well-drilling sites. Some areas of potentially tremendous yield of geothermal energy have been located.

The entire Imperial Valley of California sits on a pool of superheated water. It has been estimated that wells in the area could provide more than 10 per cent of the nation's electrical power.

"The first real commercial development for geothermal power in the United States is in the area of Big Sulphur Canyon, 90 miles north of San Francisco," Troiano said.

"The area abounds with steam jets out of earth crevices, fumaroles, pools of steaming water and the strong smell of rotten eggs. It's been called the gateway to hell and the gateway to the future," he said.

Watergate tapes back in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — One thousand days after his resignation, Richard M. Nixon, Watergate and secret tapes are before the American public again for a revival of yesterday's scandals.

Transcripts of unpublished tapes, showing Nixon's involvement in the scandal and in hush money payments earlier than was known before, blossomed Sunday in two leading newspapers and two weekly news magazines.

The new accounts added only small pebbles to the Watergate rockslide that forced Nixon's resignation in August 1974. But they served to focus interest in his first television interview on the subject since then.

The interview, paid-for and conducted by television personality David Frost, airs Wednesday over 145 stations. Nixon reportedly received $600,000 plus a share of the profits for his participation.

The same tape transcripts that surfaced in the New York Times, the Washington Post, Time and Newsweek magazines were used by Frost when the interviews were taped last month in California. Nixon expressed surprise that Frost had them.

"It hasn't been published yet?" Nixon asked why Frost quoted from one taped conversation.

"No," Frost replies. "I think it's available to anybody who consults the records."

Time magazine, in a lengthy account of the nearly 29 hours Nixon answered Frost's questions, quotes the former President as saying his immediate actions after the burglary June 17, 1972, at the Watergate offices of the Democratic party were designed "not to try to cover up a criminal action" but to contain the scandal for political reasons.

"We weren't going to allow people in the White House, people in the (re-election) committee at the highest levels who were not involved to be smeared by the whole thing," Nixon is quoted.

Time concedes "some brief crucial moments of this taping have been kept in strictest secrecy by Frost." Indeed, one question surely asked — why Nixon didn't destroy those damaging tapes — is mentioned nowhere in the magazine's account.

The interview, first of four to be aired in succeeding weeks, is sure to regenerate some Watergate passions. Newsweek, which also devoted this week's cover story to Nixon-Frost — but apparently not with the same access to the taping sessions as Time — announced former Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski has agreed to write a "factual response" in next week's issue.

The newly published tapes were prepared by the Watergate prosecution team for the 1974 cover-up trial of Nixon intimates John N. Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

Federal criminal code changes set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Possession of small amounts of marijuana would not be a federal offense and innocent victims of violent crimes could be eligible for compensation up to $50,000 under a comprehensive restructuring of federal criminal laws.

In addition, the far-reaching revision in federal law would provide for federal prosecution of Watergate-type dirty tricks and would make it less traumatic for women to testify in court against rapists.

The proposed changes in federal criminal laws are contained in legislation being offered today by Sens. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and Edward F. Kennedy, D-Mass., with the support of Atty. Gen. Griffin B. Bell.

The bill would consolidate federal criminal laws into a simplified code for the first time and is designed to adapt federal laws to current conditions while eliminating inconsistency and duplication.

The measure is a compromise of earlier versions that stalled in the last two congresses. As such, it appears to stand a better chance of passage. The most controversial provisions of the previous bills, which were known as S1, have been dropped.

Among deleted sections were provisions to restore the death penalty on a limited basis and to tighten laws against the disclosure of information the government considers classified.

McClellan, a conservative who has labored on the project for 10 years, and Kennedy, a leading liberal, reached agreement on the measure after failing in efforts last year to reconcile their differences.

Although a large part of the proposed legislation is of a technical nature, many major substantive changes would be made.

Eliminated as a federal offense, but still subject to prosecution on the state or local level, would be the possession of 10 grams or less of marijuana. This amount is equivalent to a pack of cigarettes.

Washington C.H. Police Department.

Approximately 228 bike riders participated in Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority's annual benefit bicycle ride Sunday to raise funds for St. Jude's Children's Hospital, Memphis, Tenn.

For the fifth time in five years, David Laytart turned in the county's fastest time completing the 20-mile ride in slightly under one hour. Brad Walters, riding with the handicap of a fractured leg, finished right behind Laytart.

Riders of all ages, but mostly from the junior high age group, took part in the event which is sponsored by area residents and business persons on a per-mile basis. The sponsors pledge money for each mile completed by an individual. The riders raise money for cancer research conducted at St. Jude's Children's Hospital.

A total of the proceeds will not be available until later this week.

Laytart and other prize winners will be honored at a special awards ceremony in the near future. The time and place of the ceremony has not yet been designated.

The person bringing in the most money will win a citizens band radio. The person bringing in the second highest amount of money will win $50 and the third highest contributor will win $25. A traveling trophy, which is currently being housed in Washington C.H. Middle School, will be awarded to the school bringing in the most money. The adult who raised the most money will be given five Cincinnati Reds tickets to be used at one game. The tickets were donated by Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hoppes.

McDonald's Restaurant served free hamburgers and french fries to all of the riders who completed the 20-mile course.

Sam Grooms and Mark Heiny were the honorary co-chairmen for this year's bike ride.

Stocks little changed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market shifted slightly upward today, opening another week faced with worries about tighter national credit.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was unchanged in the early going, but advances led declines among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said investors were still wary about plans by the Federal Reserve to impose stricter monetary policy.

Today's early prices included Texaco, down 1/8 to 26 3/4; British Petroleum, down 1/4 to 157/8; and Sony, unchanged at 9 3/4.

Xerox fell 5/8 to 44 7/8.

On the American Stock Exchange, Midland Glass was unchanged at 11 1/4, and Houston Oil & Minerals went up 7/8 to 46 3/4.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average eased .42 to 926.90, closing out the week with a narrow .17 decline.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about a 5-3 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 18.33 million shares, against 18.37 million on Thursday.

The NYSE's composite index rose .12 to 53.66.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .41 at 112.17.

Opinion And Comment

More support for the arts

Over the past decade or so the United States has experienced a notable renascence in the arts. This has been especially true of the performing arts: theatre, orchestras, dance.

The National Endowment for the Arts, which was established by Congress in the mid-60s and has since disbursed hundreds of millions of dollars, gets some of the credit for this. That credit is shared by the state arts councils which have worked with the NEA, channeling both federal and state funds.

Yet while this money has stimulated development and helped to keep arts groups afloat, the total government contribution to the arts has actually been quite small. The Endowment's budget for the new fiscal year is $114.5 million, which amounts to a little more than 50 cents per capita. Not a monumental sum, considered in terms of the number of Americans whose lives are singularly enriched by the arts.

A good case can be made for substantially increasing the amount of tax money spent in support of the arts. It also can be argued persuasively that the time is at hand for a review of the government arts aid structure - the NEA and the state groups - to improve its performance.

The administration seems favorable to placing greater emphasis on the arts. A small task force reportedly is at work on shaping the administration's approach. The undertaking is described by Mrs. Louis Weiner, who is special assistant to the secretary for cultural affairs in the Commerce Department, as "an effort to put cultural artistic affais on an equal footing with other government pursuits".

It also cal be taken as a good omen that President Carter's personal tastes reflect a deep interest in the arts, particularly classical music. A further encouraging sign is the fact that Joan Mondale, the wife of the vice president, has been involved in the arts and evidently means to use her position to advance them.

WASHINGTON CALLING....By Marquis Childs

The Republicans

WASHINGTON — The Republican answer to the Carter energy program is a predictable as the flowers that bloom in the spring and just about as long lasting. It has that old familiar ring: Leave it to the free market and the price system.

There is no evidence that the Republican party has learned anything from the debacle of last November. The closeness of the presidential election was no measure of the carnage in state capitols and the Congress. Today only five state legislatures have Republican majorities.

This means that where redistricting is to take place, the GOP can be redistricted practically out of existence. It is a sorry state for a once great party that held political supremacy through the decades of America's rising power and prosperity.

Moderate to liberal Republicans are in despair as they see the conservatives taking over in Washington. Such moderates as Senators Charles Percy of Illinois and Charles Mc. Mathias of Maryland may find fault with details of the energy program, but they are not prepared to shoot it down. Rumors have persisted that Mathias will switch from Republican to Democrat.

He was called on some time ago by Maryland labor leaders asking him to change his party affiliation. Since most of your views are more nearly those of the Democratic rather than the Republican party, they argued, we believe you would be assured fo reeclection as a Democrat. Mathias is up in 1980. Inquiries about changing parties meet a Mathias pleasantry, but no firm response.

In California recently I talked with Republicans convinced that Ronald Reagan will have another go at the presidency in 1980. This may be merely a form of self-hypnosis, since these are the same Reganites who steadfastly believe that if their man had been at the head of the ticket instead of Gerald Ford, he would have won.

Another Reagan run cannot be ruled out. If he were nominated and elected, he would be 69 years old on the day of his inauguration. Only once before have the voters picked a man of such advanced years. That was Gen. William Henry Harrison who died of pneumonia one month after his inauguration in 1841 at the age of 68.

Reagan has the same big money backers who have been behind him during his two terms as governor of California and in his run for the presidency against an incumbent Republican. Money is, however, hardly one of Reagan's problems since his income from his column, syndicated radio programs and his frequent lectures is well over the half million mark. The conservatives in the party who backed him seem to have no alternative.

Neither can Gerald Ford be ruled out. He has begun a drum fire of attack on Carter without waiting for the grace period that most new presidents are granted by their predecessors. With the backing of fat contracts from television and publishing, he is making noises like a candidate. The margin of his loss was so narrow last year that the prospect must be tempting and particularly if Carter should fall on his face. Ford will be 64 years old in July.

As should be apparent to anyone with the real interests of the party at heart, another Reagan-Ford contest could only deepen the split, leaving two hostile bands to fight it out for an empty honor. It was Ford's misfortune that he should have had Reagan as a challenger. He was constantly moving to the right as he glanced nervously over his shoulder at the clamor of the Reaganites.

One consequence was that he sacrificed Nelson Rockefeller to the conservatives crying for blood and even went so far as to sacrifice the Kissinger foreign policy in a policy plank that beat a shameful retreat from all Kissinger had tried to do.

Moderates in the Senate and men in the House, like John B. Anderson of Illinois, are doing their best to hold a reasonable line. Mathias, Percy and 10 others, including Jacob Javits of New York, joined together several times in the campaign last year to try to persuade Ford that an important faction in the party did not go along with the conservative cause and therefore deserved some consideration. Their efforts were in vain.

I must admit to rather strong personal feeling in this matter. Both my father and my grandfather in my native Iowa were devout Republicans who believed that anyone outside that happy fraternity was an outcast. My father, a delegate to Republican conventions for 30 years, wavered only at the selection of Warren Gamaliel Harding in 1920. It has been all downhill since that fatal error.

TUESDAY, MAY 3

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Get facts and figures straight before attempting new undertakings. Don't stretch your budget too far, but do not hesitate to spend a bit in a truly sound venture.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Even small opportunities can lead to worthwhile advancement, so don't bypass ANY avenue toward further progress.

A clever beginning will cover half your distance. Follow up pending projects with intensified steps and, all along the way, pinpoint your next moves.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

This should be a stimulating day, but there are two admonitions: Don't take on more than is reasonable and don't scatter energies — both tendencies now.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Slow down to gather forces more compactly, to conduct activities more adroitly. Don't deviate from a preplanned schedule for no good reason.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Certain misleading influences call for special astuteness. Be on the alert for persons who are unreliable or impractical — and avoid.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with a gift of leadership not usually found in the Taurean who, generally speaking, no matter how talented, finds greater success when working with others. You also have a better head for business and finances than most born under your Sign and could make a great success in the world of commerce. However, for the sake of your own happiness, you SHOULD take up one of the arts as an avocation, at least. Your love of beauty and intense idealism could never be satisfied with business alone and, depriving yourself of such outlets can only bring on emotional conflict. You have a strong sense of drama, and could excel in the theater — as actor, playwright, director or manager. Other professions in which you could shine: teaching, medicine, statesmanship, painting, fashion design and horticulture.

"SAVOR THE AROMA."

'Disaster' producer has much material

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Irwin Allen says he's in no danger of running out of disasters to turn into motion pictures.

The man who turned an ocean liner upside down in "The Poseidon Adventure" and incinerated a skyscraper in "The Towering Inferno" is back with a forest fire big enough to cause a timber shortage.

"Fire," starring Ernest Borgnine, Vera Miles, Patty Duke Astin, Alex Cord and Donna Mills, is an NBC Big Event at 9 p.m. EST Sunday.

"As long as in real life we have floods, storms, fires and other disasters, there's no end in sight," said Allen. "These kinds of pictures will be around as long as we're alive. Every poll we've taken says, 'Give us more.'

"No, I'm not going to run out of disasters. Pick up the daily newspaper, which is my best source for crisis stories, and you'll find 10 or 15 every day."

The veteran producer said there are two reasons for the popularity of crisis stories, as he prefers to call them.

"Every man, and every woman for that matter, fancies himself as a Walter Mitty character," he said. "Everyone wants the thrill of being a hero, and films like this let them be Errol Flynn without getting hurt.

"The other reason is in human nature. I think we all suffer from a faulty id. People chase fire engines, flock to car crashes. People thrive on tragedy. It's unfortunate, but in my case it's fortunate. The bigger the tragedy the bigger the audience."

There is no shortage of tragedy in "Fire." It seems that the writers researched every forest fire in recent years and found every possible complication and tragic turn — and put them all into this movie.

It's an exciting and tense film, and the fire is nothing less than spectacular. It should be. That's a real forest burning.

Allen said he obtained permission to film during the annual slash burning in Oregon. These are controlled fires set by the state's Forest Service. He also bought several old buildings on the outskirts of Silverton, Ore., and set them on fire.

"We added our own movie magic fires to make it look like the whole world was on fire," he said.

Norman Katkov and Arthur Weiss wrote the script and Earl Bellamy directed.

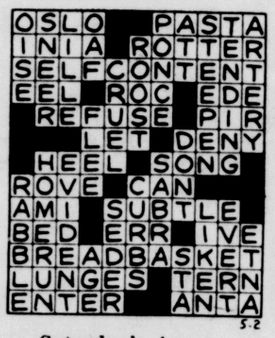

Thomas Worthington, who became one of Ohio's first two senators and later governor, founded the Ohio State Library while governor in 1814-1818.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Mercy killing a matter of caring

DEAR ABBY: SICKENED IN L.A. wrote to you recently regarding the way he felt about the destruction of thousands of bright eyed puppies and kittens, which he had to destroy as part of his job.

Your P.S. to him was: "How much sicker must you get before you seek other employment?"

Abby, there are all too few dedicated animal lovers doing this kind of job, and if they were to quit, the plight of the dogs and cats would be far worse.

It takes a humane person to destroy animals humanely. A non-loving person can be very cruel with a needle stuck in the wrong place.

Those who love animals should not abandon their jobs at animal shelters, even though they must destroy animals. They should stay there and fight for a better-informed public and better conditions where they work.

Many unfortunate animals are still stuffed into an airtight box, then exposed to exhaust fumes coming at them at 400 degrees heat. They are roasted alive!

At the ASPCA Shelter manager for Galveston County, I have destroyed over 20,000 dogs and cats in eight years.

I am sick of it, too. But that's no excuse for quitting.

ONE WHO CARES

DEAR ONE: Thank you for reminding me that the way to change the system is not by quitting but by sticking with it and trying to improve. Your answer was better than mine.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old boy with a question: Why would a boy my age want to start smoking when he knows it's bad for his health?

ROGER

DEAR ROGER: Because he wants to "prove" to the world that he's a "man." And 25 years later he tries to quit smoking for the same reason.

DEAR ABBY: You showed a lot of sympathy to mothers of bedwetters. If those mothers think they have it so bad, they should know what MY mother went through for 12 years.

Her mother had a series of strokes, and my mother cared for her in our home. Granny wet the bed (and everything else) all those years. She weighed 180 pounds, and had to be lifted and rolled over every time my mother changed the bed, which was countless times a day. We didn't have a clothes dryer in those days, either, and living in the rainy Northwest, we had to hang our laundry in the basement to dry.

Help was out of the question, since this all happened during the Depression. Five of us lived on $50 a month, which my grandfather borrowed on his life-insurance policy.

I hope that makes some of your readers with bedwetter problems realize that things could be worse.

I REMEMBER WELL

DEAR REMEMBER: Which reminds me of that oft-quoted bit of philosophy about the man who said he felt sorry for himself because he had no shoes until he met a man who had no feet. Yes, things can always be worse.

MAY POLE DANCE — The first day of May was celebrated at Quiet Acres Nursing Home Sunday with a May Pole dance for the patients.

May Day observed at Quiet Acres with May Pole dance

Quiet Acres Nursing Home held a gala May Day celebration outside on the front patio Sunday afternoon. The residents who were able, came out on the patio to enjoy the music while others who were not able were taken to open windows where they could see and hear the festivities. The weatherman cooperated perfectly by holding back the spring shower until the program was completed.

Kenny Yahn and his Country Knights provided the music. In his group are Wandy Yahn , Dave Yahn, Carol Yahn Boggs, Charlie Atkins and Tom Payton. The program began with children of the employees and visitors dancing around the May Pole, a somewhat forgotten tradition. Gary Browning, music teacher at Madison Mills and Bloomingburg Schools, came early and worked up the May Pole dance with the children and by the time the music started the children were ready to weave the May Pole. Children participating were: David Tumbleson, Shannon Anders, Missy Anders, Renee Anders, Kyle Gilmore, Kim Gilmore, Melissa Gilmore, Terry Bach, Jimmy Ingram, Ladonna Hicks and Esther Hinkle.

The Country Knights continued on with the musical program for another hour with everyone clapping in time with the music and thoroughly enjoying themselves. The lively rhythum even encouraged some to try a dance step or two in the parking lot. Many visitors were present and seemed to enjoy the program as well.

'Greenhouse' topic

Twelve members and three guests of the Concord Homemakers Club met in the home of Mrs. Esther Wilson recently for a carry-in luncheon-meeting. Mrs. Kenneth Bush gave the invocation preceding the meal.

Mrs. Bush, president, read "Resurrection Message" and "The Attic." Mrs. Lorene Sollars read the minutes of the March meeting, and roll call was answered by giving plans for a spring flower or vegetable garden.

The nominating committee reported the selection of officers for the next year. The present slate of officers was elected to serve another year. A drawing was held to select the hostesses for the next year's programs, for the group will not meet again until September.

Mrs. Jessie Shepard, program chairman, introduced the Roush sisters. Miss Josephine and Miss Jeanette Roush. Miss Josephine talked about their greenhouse, and the kind one wants; a show place or a place to work in and grow the things they desire. She also explained that it takes a lot of planning before one starts to build a greenhouse, as to where to locate it, materials to use, insulation, method of heating economically and many others.

The Roush sisters built their greenhouse onto an unused poultry house, and used fiberglass and oil heat. Miss Roush told of many destructive insects to greenhouse plants and sprays to use. She showed several beautiful flowering plants, especially geraniums which they had started from cuttings. Also, their care and how to grow a beautiful plant. They now have many garden plants, ready to put out in their garden. Miss Roush also pointed out that working with plants she felt has a great therapeutic value for one.

Those present were Helen June Waddle, Josephine an Jeanette Roush, guests, and regular members Marjorie Case, Ella Mae Belt, Lorene Sollars, Miriam Bush, Ilo Mark, Elizabeth Deer, Alice Bush, Jessie Shepard, Mabel Sollars, Jeanette Waddle, Juanita Nisley and Esther Wilson.

MRS. JOHN E. JOHNSON

Local resident takes bride in Saint Matthew Church

Saint Matthew Catholic Church in Gahanna was the setting Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Miss Cathy Ann Syfers and John Eric Johnson. The Rev. Father David E. Petry of Saint Colman Catholic Church in Washington C.H., performed the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Syfers of Gahanna, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson of 433 E. Market St., Washington C.H.

Mr. Victor Pontious of Washington C.H., vocalist, sang "We've Only Just Begun," "Time in a Bottle," and "And I Love You So." Mary Butler of Gahanna presented selections on the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white formal-length gown with empire waist with lace overlay, scoop neckline and long fitted lace sleeves. The long lace train was scalloped and flowing, and her elbow-length veil had floral lace appliques. She carried white roses with violets and ivy. The bride's mother fashioned her daughter's gown and the attendants for the wedding.

Marty Syfers, maid of honor, wore a lilac polished cotton floor-length gown with scoop neckline, short puff sleeves and empire waist for her sister's wedding. Ellen, Jeannie and Amy Syfers, sisters of the bride, were the bridesmaids. They wore gowns in shades of lavender styled like that of the honor attendant. Each carried a nosegay of satin violets with baby's breath and lilac ribbon streamers.

Mike Smith of Washington C.H., served as best man, and Dan O'Malley of Columbus, cousin of the groom, and David Armstrong of Nelsonville, and Mark and Jeff Syfers, brothers of the bride, seated the wedding guests.

Mrs. Syfers chose for her daughter's marriage a formal length gown of mauve with floral chiffon overlay and a cymbidium orchid corsage. Mrs. Johnson, the bridegroom's mother, wore a beige princess styled knit floor length gown. She, too, wore a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Hostesses for the reception which followed in the Gahanna Community Church, were Katherine Messeroll, and Sue Raines, aunts of the bride, and Sue Ellen Raines, a cousin. Cheryl Holmes of Columbus presided at the guest registry.

The couple will reside in Kent, Ohio, following a wedding trip to Lake Cumberland, Ky.

The new Mrs. Johnson, a graduate of Lincoln High School in Gahanna, attended Columbus Business University, and has been employed by Woolco Dept. Store in Columbus. Her husband, a Washington Senior High School and Hocking Technical College graduate, is employed by 84 Lumber Company in Macedonia, Ohio.

Nursing profession changing

MARY C. WEST
Appalachia Regional Hospital

NANCY BLACK
Kahler Methodist Hospital

BETTY LUNDBERG
St. Luke's

It seems many registered nurses never saw the cap they would wear the rest of their lives until after they were enrolled in a nursing school. Many never gave the cap any consideration, but evaluated the education they should receive. It seems rather strange that this cap, which becomes their pride and joy, should play such a minor role in the beginning.

As in any professional field today, nursing is changing rapidly — especially in education of nurses. In the past, almost every registered nurse attended a hospital school of nursing for three years, took the state examinations and graduated from a diploma program. The majority of our Fayette County nurses have this type of nursing school background.

Gradually the cost of these student nurses became almost impossible for most hospitals and they have phased out their schools of nursing even though students provided the much needed staff at these hospitals in exchange for their living and educational expenses.

Several years ago the American Nurses Association issued a statement that would require any registered nurse after 1980 to be a college educated degree nurse. Luckily, the "grandfather clause" will exempt any nurses who was graduated prior to 1980 and the registered nurses today who do not hold a bachelor's degree from a university can still practice their professional nursing.

A good example of a hospital school of nursing that has changed with the times is Riverside Hospital, Columbus. Remember when it was called White Cross Hospital before its last new location? Many of our local registered nurses are graduates of that school. Then, when it became Riverside Methodist Hospital it was White Cross-Riverside School of Nursing. Now, with a new four-year collegiate nursing program, that started in 1976 with Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware, once again the school of nursing will have a new name and the nursing graduates will be granted a bachelor of science degree.

Today's high school students who are considering a nursing career should be aware of the different programs offered as it can be perplexing. But it is as easy as one, two three, four. That is the length of years of different nursing programs. At the beginning level is the one-year practical nursing program similar to the one at Fayette County Memorial Hospital. After the classes and hospital work is completed, the practical nurse state board test is taken and if passed, the graduates are licensed practical nurses.

The new two-year programs in nursing are becoming popular because they allow a student to attend a vocational or technical college near to home often, and the graduates receive an associate degree in nursing, which means they are able to go back to college anytime for two more years and earn a bachelor degree. They must take the state board examination and when passed, are registered nurses.

The three-year nursing program is the diploma hospital school of nursing which is about extinct. Here, the graduates receive a diploma upon graduation and take the same state boards for registered nurses. These graduates will receive college credits if they wish to continue with their education at a university, but it usually requires about another three-years to obtain the bachelor's degree. This is one reason those who have decided that they want a college degree in nursing will probably opt for the better and faster means of obtaining such by going to a college or university that offers a nursing curriculum for four years of study. These nurses will also take the state board examination to be registered nurses but will also be holders of a bachelor of science degree from their college nursing major.

There are no distinguishing marks on the nursing caps that will tell anyone the amount of education that a nurse has. Naturally, a better educated person will command a better job position and salary. A young person entering a nursing career today has many decisions to make and cost is probably the biggest. A college nursing program is the most costly but all of the university benefits can not be weighed by the dollar alone. Some nurses go on to obtain a masters or doctorate degree for a total of eight to 10 years of study. These people usually are in education or administration field in nursing. Usually, these registered nurses wear white lab coats as their attire and no caps.

In order to meet present demands, universities often change their length of schooling and types of educational preparation. For example, Ohio State University, until the end of World War II, had a three-year school of nursing at University Hospital. During the war, a special cadet nursing program was in effect where the nurses were given a shortened course to meet the demands for more nurses. Following the war, a new 126 quarter collegiate program was adopted which was completed in five years. Several of our local RNs were in this long program.

More recently, Ohio State has shortened its nursing curriculum to a 12-quarter program which is in accordance with the amount of time non-nursing students attend college. There are about 10 area nurses who are graduates of this newer, shorter, program. But, all of the graduates from Ohio State University wear the same type of cap regardless of the program they completed. A new model of their cap features buttons on each side of the back which allows the cap to be flattened out for laundrying purposes. It is available to any of the Ohio State nursing alumni, whether young or old.

A nurse never stops learning. After the formal schooling to be a registered nurse she continues to learn new procedures and information each day she practices whether in a large city or a rural or small community. With new advances in medicine and nursing today it is a never-ending learning process that keeps the profession fresh and stimulating, never boring. Each patient presents a new challenge to her nursing skill and a new means of communication which is the way nurses can serve the person best.

Today, and in the near future, registered nurses will be performing more procedures that have been physicians duties in the past. Although, down through the years of nursing the nurse has been the physician's assistant, the new trend is to be the assistant physician. Word play? No. Already the registered nurse is becoming an independent "nurse practitioner". Because of the shortage of physicians and highly educated and knowledgeable nurse can fill this void and offer the public better health care. As more better trained auxiliary health care workers become involved, the registered nurse moves into another new field of nursing: pediatric or family nurse practitioners and nurse midwives. When practicing in this manner, the nurse has her own patients within the legal boundaries and sponsorship of the physicians as nurse preceptors.

Today's nursing field offers wide variety of professions

Perhaps no other profession or field has as great a job choice as nursing offers. We naturally think of nurses as always working in a hospital setting but within that building, nursing goes into many different specialities. There is regular floor bedwide nursing or primary care, but this is subdivided into medical and surgical nursing. In large medical centers it further subdivides into cancer, orthopedics, ear, eye, cardiac, pulmonary, neurology, psychiatric, urology, etc. Then there is maternity and obstetrics where you have a choice of caring for the babies or the mothers or working in the delivery rooms and labor rooms department.

There is the emergency room specialist and RNs in the operating rooms and recovery room departments, each having special skills for that field. Nurses must supervise other nurses and patient care so there is always that area and a promotion for a staff nurse to head nurse and supervisor to director of nursing and administration.

Nurses can go into intensive or critical care areas where many new machines almost make the nurse an advanced electronic translator. Many hospitals have out-patient clinics where a patient can be treated during daytime hours and not be admitted to the hospital. Mental health, surgery, well-baby and an assortment of diseases (renal dialysis, drug abuse, diabetes, hyper-tension etc.) can be treated in clinics which are staffed by "nurse practitioners".

A nurse has a choice of working with the young or with the old. Many nursing homes (geriatic care) require dedicated nurses and this field can offer a nurse great satisfaction. Pediatrics is a favorite of many, especially student nurses. Working with infants and children can always bring out the mother instinct in a nurse. Pediatric hospitals also offer many different types of nursing within that health facility. Public health nursing, public school nursing, along with governmental and state nursing, welfare nursing, Red Cross nursing, working in a doctor's office, in a camp or being an Industrial nurse are other fields to be considered.

If teaching is a nurse's forte, she can be an educator of student nurses or of continuing education for graduate nurses. Research work at universities is coming into the forefront for nurses too.

If one has journalistic abilities, he or she may write books or articles for nursing magazines. If one loves to travel he or she might select the armed services. Some nurses are hired for air or train transporting of patients across the country or around the world. A few nurses go into veterinary care and have "four-legged" patients.

Motherhood for the nurse often becomes her specialty too. Many nurses manage a dual career of wife-mother and nurse. As you can see, there are many different kinds of nursing and we can not begin to describe every job possibility but a nurse is bound to find something she loves. When future nurse clubs are active, these advantages should be stressed and recommended.

Caps or no caps, it is what is underneath that really counts. A pretty nurse in a nice white uniform and cap is nice to the eye. But, when you are sick and in need of a good nurse, what she offers in good nursing care is the most important contribution she can make. The saying, "A good nurse is love made visible" is so true. It appears that the world will always need nurses as long as there are ill people. And, there will always be a need for health education, taught by a nurse, in order to prevent disease.

A career in nursing is a wise choice. It can be very fulfilling and something that can be used everyday in an active or inactive (paid or unpaid) nurse's life. Just ask any nurse that will be at the CAPtivating '77 May Day Breakfast on Tuesday at the Mahan Building.

OEA criticizes plans for freeze

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Education Association voiced its opposition Saturday to any attempts by the state to freeze teacher salaries, class sizes or staffing requirements.

A resolution approved by 1,100 teachers attending the 85,000-member organization's Spring Representative Assembly said such restrictions "would cause a serious deterioration of progressive education in Ohio."

Delegates also approved a call for more OEA workshops designed to instruct teachers in methods and techniques of working with students in school systems involved in racial desegregation cases.

The convention also vowed to continue to press the Carter Administration to establish an independent cabinet post for education and voiced support of the Princeton Education Association in Hamilton County in its efforts to obtain a negotiations agreement with its school board.

State, national food prices increase again

By The Associated Press

Supermarket shoppers found familiar, but unpleasant news at the grocery store last month. An Associated Press marketbasket survey shows prices went up again during April, rising slightly more than they did during the previous month.

The AP drew up a random list of commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked prices at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

Among the highlights of the latest survey:

—The marketbasket bill increased during April at the checklist store in eight cities and decreased in five. The average rise was 3 per cent and the average drop was 1.1 per cent, for an overall increase of 1.4 per cent.

The boost compared with an average increase of 1 per cent during March, when the marketbasket total also rose at the checklist store in eight cities and decreased in five.

—The price of a pound of chopped chuck went up at the checklist store in six cities and declined in only two. The American National Cattlemen's Association has warned that beef prices will rise during the late spring and summer because ranchers, complaining that they were losing money last year, cut back the size of their herds.

—Comparing prices at the end of April with those at the start of the year, the AP found the marketbasket bill for the food and nonfood items increased at the checklist store in every city, up an average of just under 6 per cent. Current marketbasket totals are an average of 15 per cent higher than they were 12 months earlier.

—The rising price of coffee is the major reason for most of the increase. Coffee prices in many areas have almost doubled in the past year alone. By the beginning of May, prices topped the $3-a-pound level and there was little relief in sight since wholesale prices are nearing $5 a pound.

During April, the price of a pound of coffee went up at the checklist store in 10 of the cities surveyed. Increases ranged from 6 per cent in Philadelphia to 33 per cent in Los Angeles. The price remained unchanged in two cities and the requested size and brand of coffee was unavailable at the checklist store in the 13th city.

—Eggs and pork chops presented shoppers with an opportunity to bargain hunt. The price of a dozen eggs declined at the checklist store in 11 cities, continuing a recent trend, and pork chops went down at the checklist store in eight cities.

The items on the AP checklist were: Chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, Salt Lake City and Seattle.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Shoppers found little comfort in the fact that the average cost of a selected list of groceries rose only 1.16 per cent over the month at the end of April.

Although the increase was lower than the 6 per cent of the previous month, the average cost of the Ohio Associated Press shopping list has risen $4.86 in the past year.

The AP's monthly marketbasket survey showed the average cost of 16 selected items in 15 cities at the end of April was $23.52. A year ago the average was $18.66 and two years ago it was $17.03.

Prices rose on average for whole frying chicken per pound, a dozen medium grade A eggs, 10 pounds of potatoes and three pounds of coffee to more than offset declines on 11 other items in the list. Only a half-gallon of whole milk held steady over the month. It sold for an average of 79 cents.

Eggs were the leading price gainers, up 11 per cent at 70 cents a dozen. Potatoes rose 10 per cent to $1.63; frying chicken was up 3.6 per cent at 57 cents a pound; and coffee rose just 4.2 per cent to a record high average of $9.52 for a three-pound can.

Coffee also had by far the widest price spread, from an average of $6.76 among three stores in Canton, to $12.69 at Athens.

Prices of fresh tomatoes and head lettuce experienced the sharpest decline, raising a question about the winter freeze and reports of severe damage to winter crops in the south. Tomatoes by the pound dropped 19 per cent to 68 cents and lettuce sold for an average of 43 cents a head, down 28 per cent over the month.

A pound of hamburger declined 5 per cent to 76 cents; chuck roast per pound dropped 5.8 per cent to 96 cents; and center cut pork chops declined 4.2 per cent to $1.60 per pound.

A pound of stick margarine was off 3.5 per cent to 55 cents; 12 ounces of peanut butter was priced at 73 cents, down 1.3 per cent; and five pounds of granulated sugar averaged $1.01, down 4.7 per cent.

A 49-ounce box of detergent was off 1.3 per cent at $1.45; 14½-ounce packs of chocolate chip cookies averaged 98 cents, off 4.8 per cent; and a 12-ounce pack of frozen orange juice averaged 74 cents, down 1.3 per cent.

Canton's price averages were the lowest among the 15 reporting cities with a total cost on the shoppng list of $18.44, followed by Massillon with an average of $20.16, which was up 7.2 per cent over the previous month. Highest average was at Cleveland at $26.05, down .6 per cent for the survey items.

Average prices among other reporting cities and per cent of change from last month included:

Athens, $25.92, up 3 per cent; Cincinnati, $24.21, up 2.3 per cent; Columbus $24.70, up 2.9 per cent; Conneaut, $23.32, up 3 per cent; Findlay, $22.98, up .5 per cent; Fremont, $23.71, up 3.7 per cent; Portsmouth, $24.61, down 1.2 per cent; Salem, $23.59, up 4.2 per cent; Steubenville, $25.21, no comparison available; Toledo, $21.87 up 2 per cent; Van Wert, $23.12, up 1.2 per cent; Youngstown, $24.95, up 10 per cent.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the fall of 1975, ABC scheduled nine violence-prone shows and only six comedies. Next fall, it'll have 12 comedies but only four "action" series. Quite a change.

ABC program guru Fred Silverman admits the much publicized gripes by viewers and the PTA about television violence was a factor in ABC's reduction of gunsmoke and fisticuffs next fall.

But he also says there were two other big reasons for it:

—Declining audiences for crime-stopping "action" shows: "... we feel this category of program isn't attracting the kind of audience it used to... There are too many (of these) shows on the air."

—ABC decided "long before there was any criticism (of violence) that we wanted to move into another direction, so we geared our entire development over the past 18 months in that direction."

Silverman, who said the "direction" meant a heavy emphasis on variety and comedy, says "there's no question" that shows with violence are on the wane, at least at ABC.

While fading audiences for action-adventure helped cause ABC's shift to comedies, a more important reason for the change goes back to the early days of network radio, the ABC executive said.

"There's one axiom that's always been true — that the network with the most hit comedy shows is the dominant network," he said. "That has never changed and it'll never change."

2 unions slate walkouts today

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Strikes by two unions representing drivers for major area cement and building materials suppliers and plumbers were expected to begin here today.

Officials said there was little chance a strike by 165 members of Teamsters Local 348 at 11 companies could be averted. And a strike was called after the 500-member Plumbers and Pipefitters Local 209 rejected a contract proposal.

The same proposal was accepted by 10 constructin unions representing 4,000 workers in the area.

Committee schedules Thursday rally

Extended telephone service sought for Mount Sterling area

MOUNT STERLING -- The six-month-long fight to get extended area telephone service to the village of Mount Sterling and the surrounding area is entering its final stages.

The group which is spearheading the drive, the Citizens Committee for Extended Area Service, will hold a kickoff rally Thursday, May 5 at 8 p.m. in the Mount Sterling American Legion Hall.

The event is in preparation for a public hearing on the issue to be held June 16. Until then, the committee must canvass customers of the Mount Sterling telephone exchange and present its findings to the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO).

The committee is pushing for toll-free phone access to the Columbus metropolitan and the London exchanges.

Mount Sterling is served by the United Telephone Co. Columbus and London are in the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. area.

Those customers, who reside in Pickaway, Fayette and Madison counties, will decide whether the added service is worth the additional cost which would follow.

The committee is confident that the local residents will vote in its favor.

"We need this service and we need it badly," said committee member Jim Satterfield. "Our canvass must furnish enough 'yes' signatures to impress the PUCO."

The coming weeks will be very important, he added.

"May 5 is our kickoff and we are looking and hoping for a large turnout," he said.

Satterfield is a member of the Mount Sterling Area Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the committee's efforts with the Madison County Farm Bureau.

Several drives for extended area service have been launched in the Mount Sterling area in the past few years, but this one is the first to employ regularly scheduled meetings, large amounts of media coverage and the services of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

"We have gotten it off the ground this time," Satterfield said. "We're confident of winning."

The committee has used many arguments in support of its position including what they term the "chaos" of the present telephone set-up in the area.

A resident in the Mount Sterling exchange, for example, cannot make a toll-free call to the local madison-Plains High School, a London number.

And the proximity of Mount Sterling to Columbus makes it unrealistic for the village to be excluded from the metropolitan exchange, committee members claim.

Springfield man held by police

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Springfield man was arrested Friday and two automatic weapons valued by police at $750 were seized.

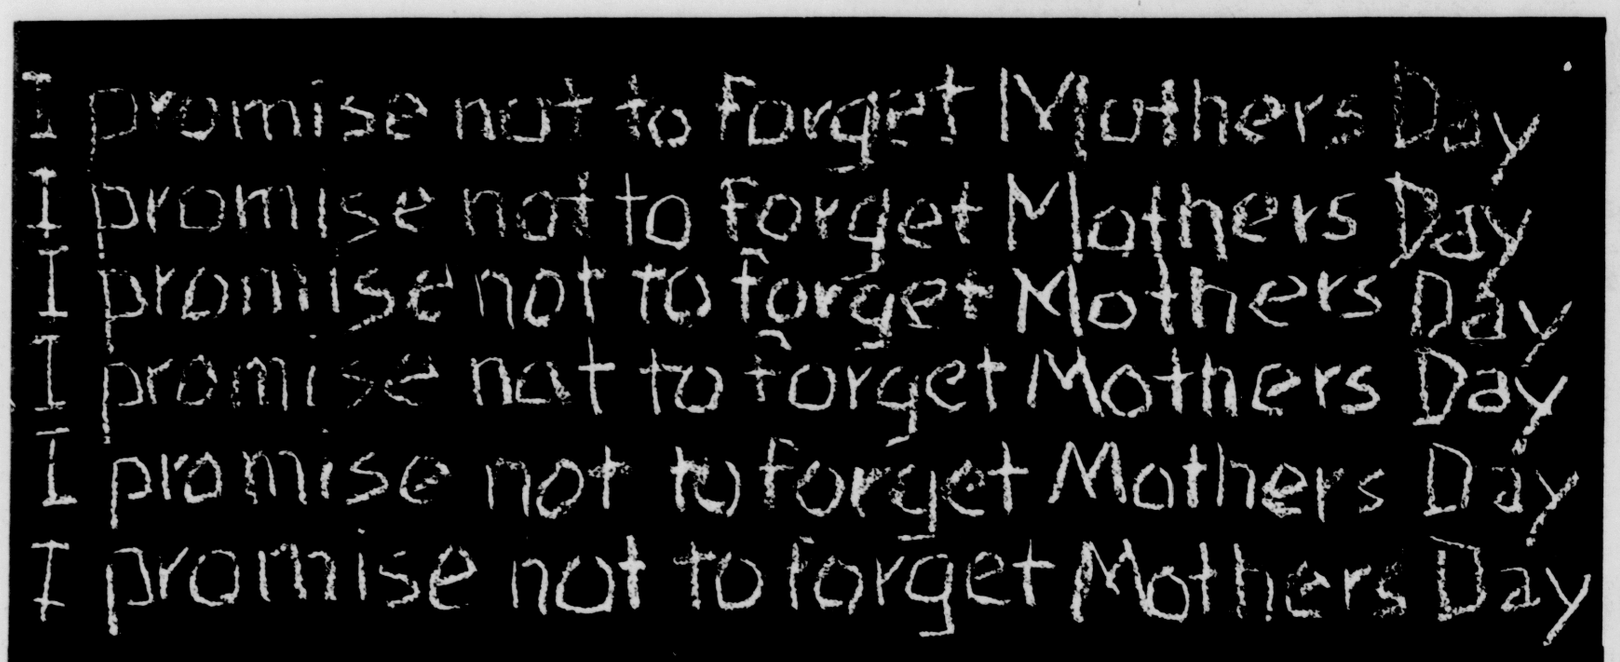

James Mastoris, 41, was charged with four counts of weapons law violation.

Police identified the automatic weapons as a Russian-made 7.6 caliber and a British-made 9mm.

Columbus police officers, Franklin County sheriff's deputies and an agent of the U.S. Treasury Department participated in the arrest.

Police said they had learned that there would be a sale of automatic weapons in a parking lot on the city's west side. But Lt. Harry Dolby said officers apparently tipped their hand too soon for any sale to be made.

An investigation is continuing and officers said they were trying to find the source of the weapons.

FUND DRIVE BOOSTED — The Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society got a big boost from Mac Tools, Inc., of Washington C.H., last week. The local firm donated $500 to the county's fund-raising drive which was kicked off April 18 with the annual dessert smorgasbord. The donation made in honor of Richard L. Shorey, a former assistant sales manager for the firm when it operated out of Sabina. Paul W. Elrod (left), president of Mac Tools, Inc., presents local unit president, the Rev. Gerald Wheat (Center) a letter announcing the donation. Pictured at the right is Thomas R. Sizer, vice president of the manufacturing firm.

Mac Tool donates $500 to county cancer drive

A $500 donation from Mac Tools, Inc., pushed the Fayette County Unit of the American Cancer Society closer to its $19,000 fund-raising goal.

Beginning April 18 with the annual dessert smorgasbord, the local unit has been soliciting donations to fund its services.

The local unit furnishes a variety of services to persons who have or have had cancer. The unit maintains a loan of special equipment, a supply of cancer-fighting drugs, and a transport program for patients. In addition to the services for cancer victims, the unit sponsors classes and detection clinics at various times during the year.

This work is funded only through donations from individuals or organizations such as the support from employes of Mac Tools, Inc.

Of the $500 total donated by the local manufacturing firm, $300 was donated by district sales managers, home office personnel, and their wives, who attended Mac Tool's national sales conference.

Employes attending the conference willingly paid $5 and $1 fines assessed for forgetting to bring their reference manuals to the various seminars and for not wearing their name badges. Several individuals, although not fined, were kind enough to give a donation anyway.

It was unanimously decided that the money should be donated to the local American Cancer Society unit in behalf of Richard L. Shorey, formerly the company's assistant sales manager in Sabina. Shorey presently resides in Belmont, Calif.

The additional $200 was donated by the company and their corporate officers. Half of that $200 portion was donated in the name of ABC Sports which assisted the company in conducting the successful sales conference.

The Fayette County unit's fund drive will continue through the middle of this month. Ernie Wilson is the chairman of the annual campaign.

Persons wishing to donate may do so by sending money to Donna Jean Johnson, the unit's treasurer; Charlene Barber, the executive director; or the Rev. Gerald Wheat, the unit's president.

Farm tractor fire checked

Engine sparks ignited a farm tractor Saturday evening at the Glen McCoy residence, 1839 Ohio 734 NE.

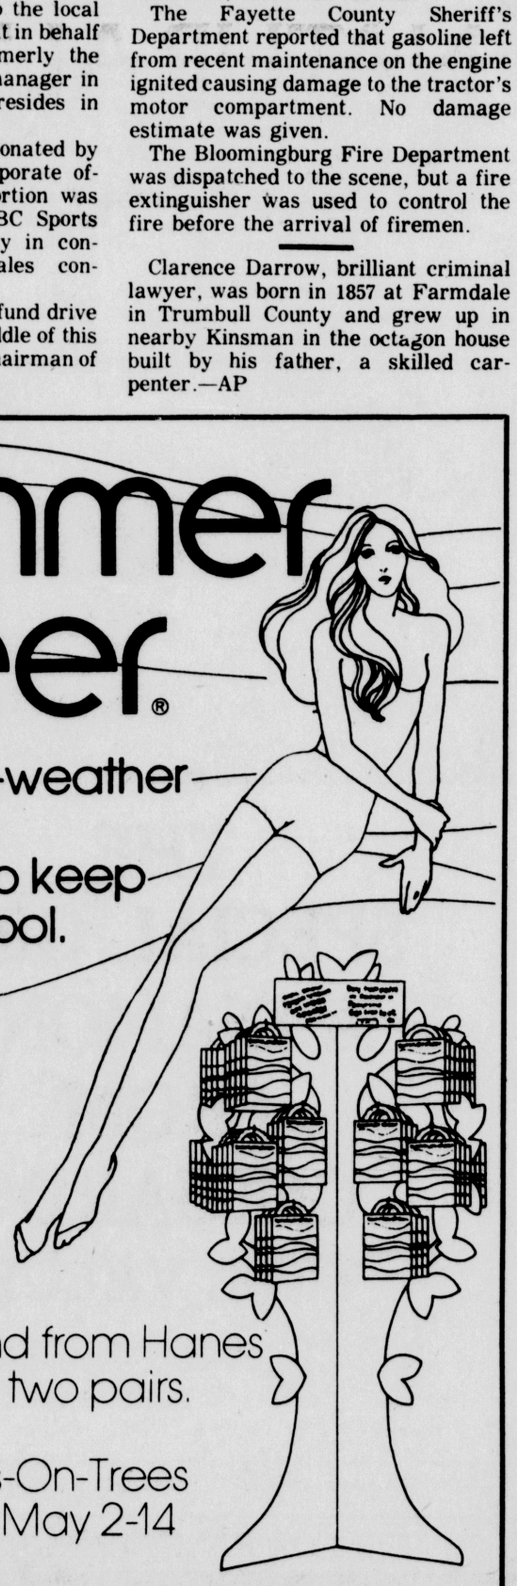

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported that gasoline left from recent maintenance on the engine ignited causing damage to the tractor's motor compartment. No damage estimate was given.

The Bloomingburg Fire Department was dispatched to the scene, but a fire extinguisher was used to control the fire before the arrival of firemen.

Clarence Darrow, brilliant criminal lawyer, was born in 1857 at Farmdale in Trumbull County and grew up in nearby Kinsman in the octagon house built by his father, a skilled carpenter.—AP

Energy program stirs activity

NEW YORK (AP) — It's amazing, the immediate impact of President Carter's energy message, his challenge to the nation to consider the energy shortage the moral equivalent of war.

The moral of the message isn't likely to have been lost. But it may, it seems, have been set aside for consideration at a later date.

Automotive manufacturers say they plan to boost output in May, the railroads exclaim the dawn of a new day, drivers of big cars say they'll keep them and pay the penalty.

On Wall Street, research houses get to work searching out stocks that might conceivably benefit, or that might give that appearance, which is just as good for the purpose of peddling shares.

Economists quickly advise their clients that the energy program isn't likely to have a significant effect until next year; they issue assurances that the outlook is good for the rest of the year.

Are long-delayed decisions being delayed again?

An analysis of the outcome of Carter's proposals by one prominent research firm here includes this typical comment:

"With congressional elections looming, no 'right-thinking' legislator will lightly risk offending the drivers of the 100 million cars on the road today."

Under the Carter plan, coal is supposed to be the nation's salvation. How does the research firm analyze the outlook for coal?

"A toss-up. Powerful vested interests pitted against each other in a free-for-all — environmentalists, utilities, mining industry, state governments. Meaningful progress will not come soon, despite the leading role in which coal has been cast."

It summarizes: "In any event, the legislative process will fragment the program into many smaller components, whose passage through the mills could take years."

The notion that the country delayed before and so it will argue and procrastinate again isn't isolated thinking.

The entire energy consideration is remarkably absent or markedly played down in the projections of many stock market and other analysts.

All analysts hereabout concede that the new energy initiatives will eventually have their impact, but there is the decided tendency among some of them to focus on the immediate and deal with the future later.

There is reason for so doing. Disbelief exists that the Carter plan is unalterable. There is the feeling we haven't heard the last word. And there is general agreement that Congress will change it anyhow.

The safe advice, therefore, concerns only the next 6 to 18 months. Meanwhile, it's business as usual on The Street.

Outlook for state fairs this year bright, president says

The outlook for county fairs in Ohio this summer is bright, according to Eddie Kirk, president of the Ohio Fair Manager's Association.

Kirk made the comment during a meeting of the Ohio Fair Manager's Association districts 3, 4 and 6, which was held in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds Sunday.

Presiding over the dinner meeting, Kirk told the 120 persons in attendance that fairs in Ohio "never looked any better than they do at this time." He added that "the association's job to provide the necessary information and entertainment for people to want to attend the fairs has been successful."

Also in attendance at the meeting was Mark List, assistant director of the Ohio Department of Agriculture, who was representing state director Jack Stackhouse.

Ohio State University state 4-H leader, Dr. Lifer, explained at the meeting that youth add much to county fairs. He added that 4-H sponsors over 180 different fair projects.

Donald Miller of the Ohio Racing Commission reported that the outlook for harness racing on the county fair circuits this year was also bright. He said entries should be very heavy and pari-mutuel upgrading is being accomplished.

Lee Ault from the Ohio Expositions Commission, spoke on advertising for county fairs.

Entertainment at the meeting was provided by the Highland Lads, a barbershop quartet from Hillsboro.

Jackson County, settled by Welsh families in 1818, experienced its first boom in 1830 when a Welsh minister, digging a water well in his dooryard in Jackson, struck a rich coal vein. —AP

British troops set for Irish violence

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The British government was flying 600 more combat troops to Northern Ireland today in preparation for a general strike called by militant Protestants for midnight tonight.

The new reinforcements raised the number of troops in Northern Ireland to 15,500, the largest number in more than three years. Officials said at least 3,000 more were on standby in England, and the government also had 17,850 militiamen, police and police reservists in the war-torn province.

The Ulster Unionist Action Committee led by the Rev. Ian Paisley and former legislator Ernest Baird called the strike to support their demands for a military offensive against the Irish Republican Army guerrillas fighting to end British rule and Protestant domination in Northern Ireland. The committee also demanded restoration of the provincial parliament, which the Protestant majority controlled and which the British government suspended in March, 1972.

The British government's secretary of state for Northern Ireland, Roy Mason, rejected the demands. But the committee hoped to duplicate the success of a Protestant general strike in May, 1974, which paralyzed the province and wrecked the first ProtestantCatholic coalition government in Northern Ireland's history.

Occupational health plans said faltering

CINCINNATI (AP) — National health insurance will do nothing for occupational safety or preventive medicine for businesses and the 93 million persons employed by small firms, according to Dr. Loren Kerr of the United Mine Workers.

Kerr, director of the UMW occupational health department, blamed physicians' fees as a major cause of skyrocketing medical costs in his speech opening a national seminar for employers of less than 3,000 workers and unions.

The three-day meeting, sponsored by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) and hosted by Northern Kentucky University, is looking into new methods of delivering occupational safety programs for smaller companies with limited funds.

"The job is being done at the big plants," Kerr said, but noted that 99 per cent of the nation's workers are employed elsewhere with no provisions for safety and preventive health medicine.

Kerr said the "crux" of developing such programs will involve practicing physicians who will do the work for the small companies. However, he said, physicians need more training in the subject and medical schools need to install courses in occupational safety and preventive medicine.

At the same time, Kerr blamed industrial management for the "exclusion of industrial medicine" from the mainstream of medicine by restricting the practice to on the job practice.

Kerr called the Kennedy-Corman Health Security Bill pending in Congress "the most efficient" health insurance proposal. "Unfortunately," he added, "all the Health Security Bill will do for occupational health and safety is assure payment of doctor and hospital bills...It will not resolve the basic issues which are still prevention, reorganization of delivery of services and financing."

He said union negotiated medical plans are collapsing because of the increasing costs of health delivery.

Kerr called for eliminating the "archaic fee-for service" method of paying physicians. Instead he advocates salaries, "as in all other public services."

Dr. John Wilson, chairman of the environmental department of the public health college of Washington University told the planners they must understand the financial problems of small employers before submitting programs.

Wilson said physicians hired by companies must inspect the plants to learn the exposure of workers they must treat and that public health nurses, doctors assistants and sanitarians should be utilized in enforcing new federal occupational standards.

Circleville takes eighth straight crown

Panthers second at SCOL meet

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Editor

CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio — "In the league meet, you're supposed to have personal bests. Circleville had personal bests and we just ran like we have all season. The score wasn't anything close to what I thought it would be."

Those were the words of Miami Trace track coach Bill Beatty, whose Panthers finished second to the Circleville Tigers in the South Central Ohio track championship Saturday.

For Trace, it was the second year in a row as runner-up to the Tigers. For Beatty, another frustrating year of being second behind Circleville's Jim Lint. Eight years straight, Beatty has been behind Lint, six years with Hillsboro and the last two with the Panthers.

It was also Circleville's eighth SCOL track championship in a row.

Wilmington finished the day in third place with 44 1-3 points. Following them was Greenfield McClain in fourth, Hillsboro in fifth, Madison Plains sixth, and Washington C.H. seventh.

The day started hard for the Panthers. Counting on some early points from the long jump, Dan Gifford never made it to the finals as he fouled three times in preliminaries.

Gary Conn made the finals and placed fourth, just 2¼ inches off the winning leap. Dave Phillips of Circleville began an outstanding meet with the win in the long jump.

Gifford got fired up after stumbling in the long jump by winning the high jump. In the process, he beat his own SCOL record of 6-foot-2 by clearing the bar at 6-foot-4.

Art Schlichter also picked up some points for the Panthers as he took fourth with a jump of 5-foot 10.

Jeff Moorehead of Circleville easily won the pole vault competition with a vault of 11 feet, nine inches. Scott Martin and Randy Hinkley also picked up some points.

Martin finished second as a much improved vaulter over last year at 11 feet even and Hinkley was fourth at 10-feet-6.

Keith Gross won the shot put by more than four feet, giving Hillsboro its first win and only win of the day. Gross's winning throw was 49 feet, eight and one-half inches.

Ralph Fast picked up a third in the shot for Trace with a heave of 45 feet, one-half inch.

Although Gross won the shot easily, Bill Mogan of Circleville won the discus by an even larger margin. Mogan whirled the disc 142 feet, one-half inch to win the competition by over seven feet.

Duane Six picked up two points for Washington C.H. in this competition by finishing fourth with a throw of 128 feet, two and one-half inches. Fast was fifth at 127 feet, seven and three-quarter inches.

Phillips added to his trophy case in the first running event of the day. He tied his own record set last year in the 120-yard high hurdles with a time of 14.8 seconds. Both the Panthers and Blue Lions were shut out of this event.

The first close running event wasn't long in coming. Wilmington's speed burner, Gary Williams, and Miami Trace's sophomore sensation, Brian Zurface, dueled each other right into the tape in the 100-yard dash.

Williams, the taller and older of the two, made it to the wire less than a step ahead of Zurface to win the race in 10.3 seconds.

Zurface was second with his personal best time of 10.4 seconds.

The mile run was a near record-setting performance by John Curtis of Wilmington. He shaved seven seconds off last year's winning time and missed the SCOL record by just 0.6 seconds.

Curtis ran the mile in 4:35 flat with Tom Taylor of Circleville second, two seconds behind.

Bill Hanners of Miami Trace was just a second off the time that won this event for him last season but slipped to fourth this year.

Washington C.H.'s state competing 880-relay team owned the SCOL record for just one year. Greenfield McClain's team eclipsed the old mark of 1:33.7 by just .03 seconds to set a new record.

Miami Trace picked up a point in that competition by finishing fifth.

In the 440-yard dash a 12-year-old record fell to Wilmington's Williams. The sleek Hurricane machine circled the all-weather track in 50.4 seconds, shaving more than one second off the record of 51.5 seconds set back in 1965.

Bill Warnock and Zurface chased Williams all the way and ended with second and third place, respectively. Warnock was the defending champ in the race and he was just one-tenth of a second off last year's time despite being injured much of this year.

In the 180-yard low hurdles, Phillips made it three in a row. He cleared the hurdles easily on his way to a 20.8 time, almost a second faster than his nearest competitor.

Dean Faris of Miami Trace turned in his best time ever, finishing fourth with a time of 22.7 seconds.

Frank Merrill of Circleville hadn't run under two minutes in the 880-yard run all year until Saturday. Merrill successfully defended his crown in that race and eclipsed his own league record set last year.

Merrill cut more than one and one-half seconds off his time last season and turned the race in 1:58.1 to win it by five seconds.

Ken Ward of Trace was fourth with an excellent time of 2:01.3, just .03 seconds out of second place. Glen Cobb was fifth with a time of 2:07.5.

Phillips ended his miraculous day with six more points and a win in the 220-yard dash. In four events (the maximum allowed in the league meet) Phillips carted home four wins and added 24 points to the Tiger point total.

He was just one second off the oldest SCOL record on the books with a time of 23 seconds flat. The record set once 16 years ago in 1961 and tied 12 years ago in 1965 in 22 seconds flat.

Zurface and Warnock chased Phillips to the wire this time as Zurface had another personal best, just .03 seconds off the winning time. Warnock's time was 23.4 seconds.

Dave Uland of Circleville sewed up the meet for the Tigers with a record-shattering performance in the two mile run. Uland beat a 10-year-old record of 10:00.7 to be the first SCOL trackster to beat the 10-minute mark at the league meet with a time of 9:59.3.

Wilmington's mile relay team was the winner of the final event of the day, beating Miami Trace's record of 3:32.5 set last year.

The Hurricane runners ran the mile in 3:31.5. Miami Trace was fourth this year and Washington C.H. took a fifth. Williams won the race for Wilmington, anchoring the team. He was in third when he got the baton and then ran away with the remainder of the race.

Fayette County combined for only one all-league trackster as Gifford will be honored for his performance in the high jump.

Beatty had nothing but praise for Zurface following Saturday. "There's just not enough I can say about Brian Zurface," the Trace coach stated. "He ran seven races, more races than any other person out there. He ran two 100's, two 220's and three 440's, all with excellent times. In my opinion, he's all-league."

LEAGUE MEET A BIG HURDLE — Washington C.H.'s Bob Fridley and Miami Trace's David Creamer both found the 120-yard high hurdles and the SCOL track meet big hurdles Saturday. Neither finished in the point scoring for the event and Circleville went on to win the meet for the eighth year in a row.

ZURFACE EDGED BY WILLIAMS — Brian Zurface of Miami Trace is edged at the wire by Wilmington's Gary Williams in the finals of the 100-yard dash in Saturday's SCOL track meet. Williams won the event with a time of 10.3 while Zurface was second at 10.4.

Win SCOL championship

Panther girls contribute to Miami Trace trophy case

CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio — Although the Miami Trace boys track team did not realize their goal of becoming league champions, the Panther girls achieved their quest that started last year.

Finishing in third place one year ago, Trace came back this season to whip defending champion Greenfield McClain to win the first SCOL track championship ever at Miami Trace.

The Panthers waited until the shot put to get points and then Cherri Hixon won the event, setting a new league record of 34 feet, two and one-half inches in the process. Patty Ulloa finished fifth in the shot.

After the field events, Trace was in poor shape as they trailed by 11 points. However, they fared better in the race preliminaries, placing two runners in each race.

Laura Bailey took a second place in the 80-yard low hurdles, just one-tenth of a second off Sandy Hamilton's winning time. Hamilton tied her own meet record.

Trace's 880-yard medley relay team set a new school record by finishing second. The team of Teresa Dean, Tammi Arnold, Gail Camstra and Hixon turned the race in 2:02 flat.

Wilmington's medley team won the race and set a new league record at 1:59.3.

The Panthers got another win in the mile run. Cassandra Delay broke out and completely shattered the old league mark of 5:53.5 by nearly 30 seconds. Delay's time was a sterling 5:27.1.

Tia Smith of Trace was second and she tied last year's record.

The Panthers finally tied for the lead in the meet on the strength of Delay. She set another league record by winning the 880-yard run in a time of 2:25.8, seven seconds better than the record. Tia Smith was fourth for Trace at 2:36.7.

Vicki Bennett gained more ground for the Panthers in the 220-yard dash, finishing second by just .05 seconds. Her time of 27.35 seconds also represents a new school record.

The Panthers sewed up the meet by winning the final event, the mile relay. The team comprised of Diana Rodgers, Bailey, Camstra and Delay set a new league record of 4:24.4, beating the old record by a whopping 12 seconds.

In all, the Trace girls broke four league records and eight school records Saturday.

TO THE TAPE WITH NO DELAY — Cassandra Delay of Miami Trace breaks the tape in the mile run of Saturday's league track meet. Delay cut nearly 30 seconds off the old SCOL record and then cut seven seconds off the record in the 880-yard run. She helped Trace to its first ever girls championship in track.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA

Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

Congressional concern over the Soviet military buildup and stalled arms negotiations has produced renewed interest in national civil defense.

The mood in the House of Representatives was clearly expressed in this week's passage of a military procurement bill containing the largest civil defense budget in more than 15 years.

The message to the Carter White House was unmistakable. Civil defense is back in style. The House said so overwhelmingly with a 347-to-43 vote of approval for the bill.

That we should suddenly become interested in the state of our civil preparedness can be traced to the realization that the Soviet Union is involved in an unparalleled civil defense development effort, while America's program has almost dried up from neglect.

Nuclear war may be unthinkable to Americans—and certainly, I can envision nothing worse—but can we assume that it is equally unthinkable to our enemies?

What other conclusion can realistically be drawn from the Soviets' accelerated civil defense drive which includes construction of vast underground factories, frequent evacuation rehearsals, and dispersal of key elements of the Soviet population?

Of course, it does not necessarily follow that our nation's policies should be governed by Soviet actions. However, we need a realistic civil defense program, and at present, ours is woefully indequate to meet real—not imagined—world challengers.

It has been estimated that civil defense shelters could reduce American casualties from a nuclear war down to 20 million. That figure, in itself, represents a horrendous loss of life, but it is far better than the 100 million that America would suffer otherwise if subjected to a nuclear attack.

Most of the civil defense funds approved by the House would go into regional shelters, with a modest amount to the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency to let Americans know that we can protect ourselves, if necessary, through proper procedures. In the event of a nuclear holocaust, many hundreds of people could be saved through this kind of education.

If America has failed to see the value of civil preparedness in recent years, other nations have not.

Local deputy helps in emergency blood relay

Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy Robert A. Russell assisted in an emergency blood relay Friday evening. Russell met a Franklin County Sheriff's Department cruiser at the intersection of I-71 and U.S. 62 to pick up a supply of B negative blood.

The blood was being transferred from the Columbus blood bank to Fayette County Memorial Hospital for a patient from Bainbridge.

A number of injury reports were also handled by the Sheriff's Department over the weekend.

A three-year-old Jeffersonville girl was treated and released at Fayette County Memorial Hospital after she was struck by a bicycle while playing on the sidewalk in front of her home.

Heather M. Gordon, daughter of James and Linda Gordon, received a lacerated lip and forehead as well as a number of bruises. The rider of the bicycle was not injured.

Three persons suffered raccoon bites and were treated at the Fayette County Memorial Hospital emergency room over the weekend.

Jerry Baxter, 11, of 2035 Rowe-Ging Road, was bitten on the finger by a pet raccoon Saturday afternoon. He was reportedly feeding the animal at the time.

Samuel Smith, 338 Miami Trace Road, and Eugene Groves, 725 Maple St., were bitten by a raccoon on Tuesday. The two youths did not seek treatment until the animal died Friday. The raccoon reportedly came to the Miami Trace Road residence Tuesday acting strange. The two boys were bitten while handling the animal and taking it to a local veterinarian's office. The animal was treated, but died three days later. The animal's skull is presently being examined.

Two-year-old Shannon Anthony, 3335 Prairie Road, was reportedly bitten on the face by a cat Sunday morning at a rural Greenfield address. The boy's mother reported that her son become rough with the animal. The cat has received shots and will be under observation, according to the Fayette County Sheriff's Department.
